

Customs & Tax

Customs and taxes are facts of life in international shipping. But you shouldn't need to spend more time on them than absolutely necessary. That is why FuelVision Bunkering's customs & tax features have one thing in mind: to make your international handling of fuels completely compliant, with minimum effort.

- Customs compliance guaranteed
- Customs status visible per product
- Interfaces tailored to the viewer

Tailored insights for agencies

Customs and tax authorities aren't out to make your life difficult; they just want the information they need to calculate the amounts you're due. So why not give them that insight? FuelVision Bunkering communicates directly and automatically with tax and customs agencies and tells them only what they need to know: volumes, product types and customs status.

Automatic pre-registration

When a trader drafts a nomination in FuelVision, there is an option to send the authorities a preregistration. FuelVision also checks the pre-registration for completeness before actually sending it. Once confirmed, the designated authorities receive an automated e-mail about the volume, product type and recipient involved.

Distinctions between fuels

FuelVision makes several types of distinctions, providing the authorities with only and exactly the adequate and accurate information for each product movement.

- Distinction between fuel products moved as commodities trade on the one hand, and products moved as (sea)bunkering for propulsion on the other;
- Distinction between customs statuses (either T1 or T2, for example) for each product movement.

Compliance with control

The obligation to inform the authorities is an administrative drag, but most of what they demand to know isn't confidential to begin with. Automating this process thus increases your freedom to do business, without further sacrificing corporate privacy. Nevertheless, FuelVision is designed not to be a fully automated black box: your company will always keep full control over what is disclosed to which authorities, when.

Keeping track of barges and shipments

For each barge inspection, authorities want to know:

- The fuel product on board;
- Your total remaining stock;
- The customs status of the product.

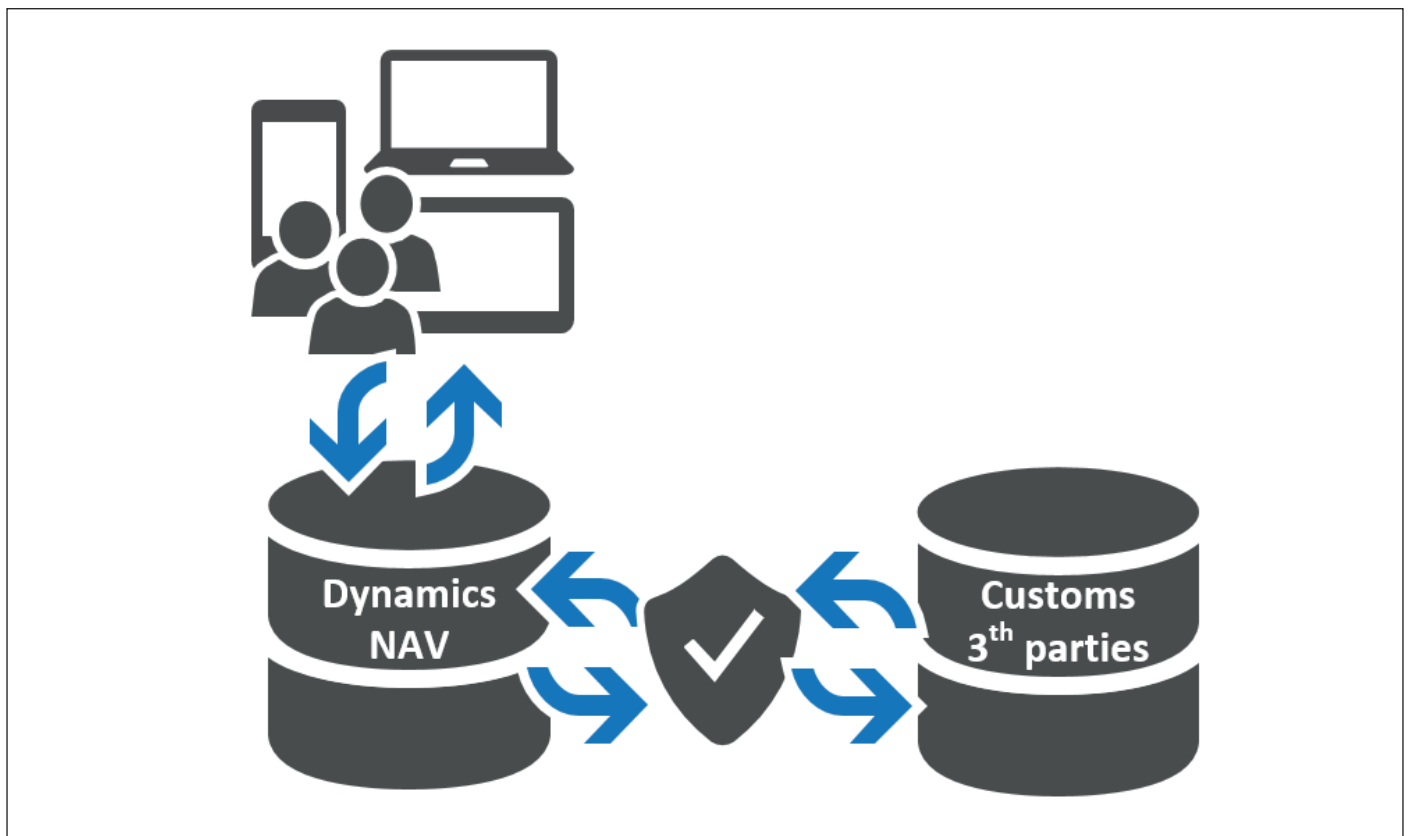

FuelVision makes this information instantly available for each barge on inspection. You'll never need to worry about inspections from a compliance perspective.

Tailored interfaces

When all clearances (who has access to what information) for all relevant authorities have been set in FuelVision, the system presents tailored interfaces to each authority (compliant to NCTS, EMCS or other relevant regimes). Intuitive and transparent, the amount of time wasted on tax and duties processing is kept to a minimum, while maximizing your service orientation and good corporate citizenship.

Correct VAT statements

When invoicing a product, it's important to know if VAT applies to the client question. FuelVision tracks VAT applicability for each client and will instantly adjust the VAT paragraph on your invoices. Like so many other details in FuelVision, your comfortable compliance is paramount.
